The current settlement is garbage. Do not make the same mistake again and allow Microsoft to escape with barely a hand slap. They have been found guilty of monopolistic business practices and it is imperative to the health and future of this nation's computer industry that they be duly punished. A real punishment, not something as laughable as the 'we'll donate a bunch of computers to schools so we can cut into one of our competitor's market shares'. As Americans we expect equal treatment before the law and find it appalling when large companies escape/buy their way out of any real punishment. Hold Microsoft accountable for its crime.
